YKPA is caring for Bali street children

"How can we really help that begging child?"

"I know giving them money isn't the best way..."

When you give money to a child begging or selling on the street, someone else gets that money:

- They must give your donation to their 'boss', some adult who typically does not work, and treats them abusively
- Police repeatedly capture the children, take your donations and abuse the children in various ways
- You encourage this sad life to continue for many years; and for girls, this too-frequently leads to prostitution with tourists in Kuta !

When you give food instead of money:

- The child doesn't have enough money to give the boss, who frequently physically abuses them, doesn't let them come 'home' to sleep, etc.

Help us help them

- We first teach them reading, math, etc. on the beach or street. They slowly learn to trust us (see video at www.ykpa.org). Help us expand this education to more days, with more content.
- We have a home/shelter where the children learn to be loved, overcome malnutrition, attend school, improve their social skills, become good citizens; and later will learn job skills.

We need your support

- Please donate anything you do not want. We especially need beds, furniture, child's clothing, computers, learning software, games, office supplies and equipment, a motorcycle, auto, etc.
- Consider a donation (visit www.ykpa.org and see details on reverse side of this brochure)
- Become an online fundraiser...spread the word of our work to your friends, business contacts, and retailers (see website)

Visit us in Bali

- Visit our 'street' reading classes on the beach or in Denpasar back alleys
- Visit our office (see address on reverse side of brochure)

Yayasan Kasih Peduli Anak (deeply loving and caring for children) is a non-denominational Indonesia non-profit charity assisting Bali street children in a transparent way with the help of local and international volunteers.
